WHEN THE PRESIDENT COMES TO TOWN

President Wilson strolled about the streets for half an hour in the course of his visit to consult an oculist here before anyone recognized him. Finally at 12th and Chestnut streets the passing throng marked him and began to tag at his heels. Mr. Wilson is seen here in a light bowler hat.

GAY ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS WHO HAVE JUST ENLISTED IN ROME

These are mostly men from the Austrian border who, having never been confronted with the bloody weariness of modern war, are happy over their new uniforms and the prospect of getting into action against the monarchy they hate, as well as redeeming their kindred who have been for so long "unredeemed."

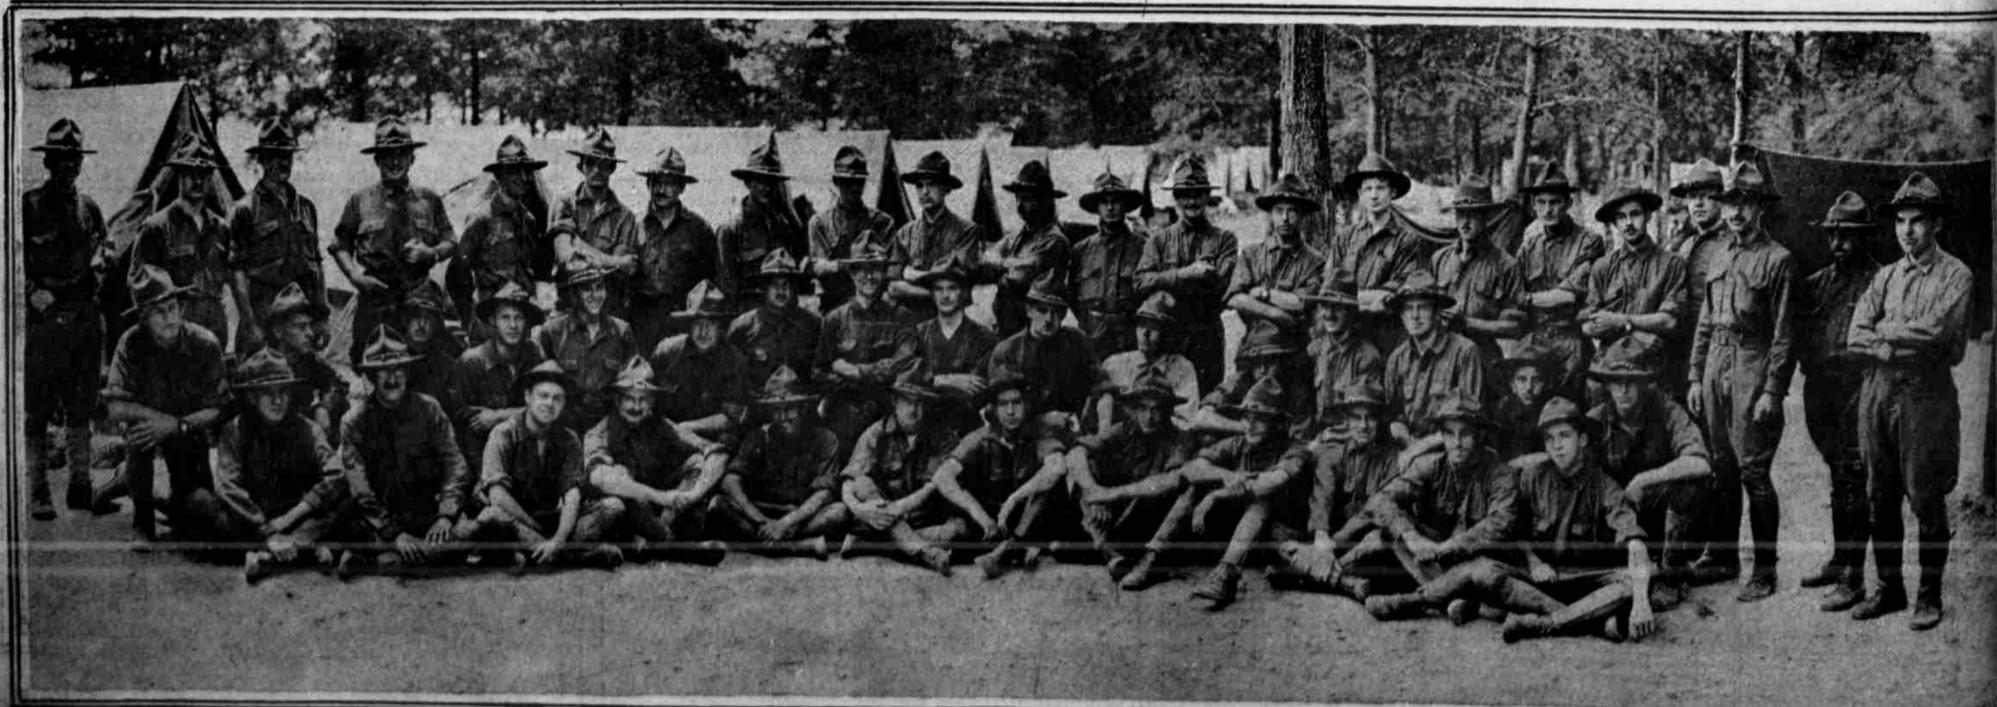

EXPELLED BRAZILIAN ENVOY TO MEXICO NOW IN WASHINGTON

Jose Manuel Cardozo, the man who looked after the diplomatic interests of the United States in Mexico till expelled by Carranza, is now a visitor to Washington. This picture shows him with the Brazilian Ambassador to the United States and Captain Powell Clayton acting for the State Department. Left to right are Doctor Cardozo, Ambassador da Gama, Secretary Carlos Gordillio, Captain Powell Clayton and Secretary M. Betancourt.

WHEN THE KAISER WAS WELCOME IN SWITZERLAND

This picture is of interest just now in view of the reports that the mountain republic, having among her citizenship men of German, French and Italian blood, is having a hard time in preserving her neutrality. The Emperor (at the right) is shown at a review of the Swiss army.

HUSKY MEMBERS OF COMPANY E, ENGINEER BATTALION, NATIONAL GUARD OF PENNSYLVANIA

This group of well-known Philadelphia men, who have just returned from camp in Virginia, where they learned all the lessons derived from the European war, are rated as the best company of engineers in the United States, with the exception of the regular army. In the event of war, the majority of the men would get commissions, as they have shown their efficiency to the satisfaction of the Government.
